C1 Reading

Working out meaning from context

Guess unknown words from the clues around them instead of reaching for a dictionary.

Advanced texts always contain some unfamiliar words. Strong readers do not stop at each one; they use the context to work out a meaning that is good enough to keep reading.

Clue	Example	What it tells you
Definition or rephrasing	The drug is efficacious, that is, it works.	The meaning is given directly.
Contrast	Unlike her gregarious sister, Maya prefers to be alone.	The opposite of preferring to be alone: sociable.
Example	Arid regions, such as deserts, get little rain.*	Very dry.
Cause and result	The talks foundered, so no agreement was signed.	Failed.
Word parts	un-precedent-ed	Never happened before.

Three-step check. Decide the word class (noun, verb, adjective), decide if it is positive or negative, then try a simple word in its place and see if the sentence still makes sense.

Common mistake. Guessing from how a word looks alone. Inflammable looks like "not flammable", but it means "easily set on fire". Always check your guess against the sentence.

Practice

Work out the meaning of the word in bold and name the clue you used.

1. The manager was adamant: no matter how much we argued, she would not change her decision.
2. Most of his novels are long, but this one is remarkably terse.
3. The town relies on perennial crops, plants such as fruit trees that grow back every year.
4. Prices rose so precipitously that many families could no longer afford bread.
5. Her misgivings about the plan proved right when the project collapsed.
